

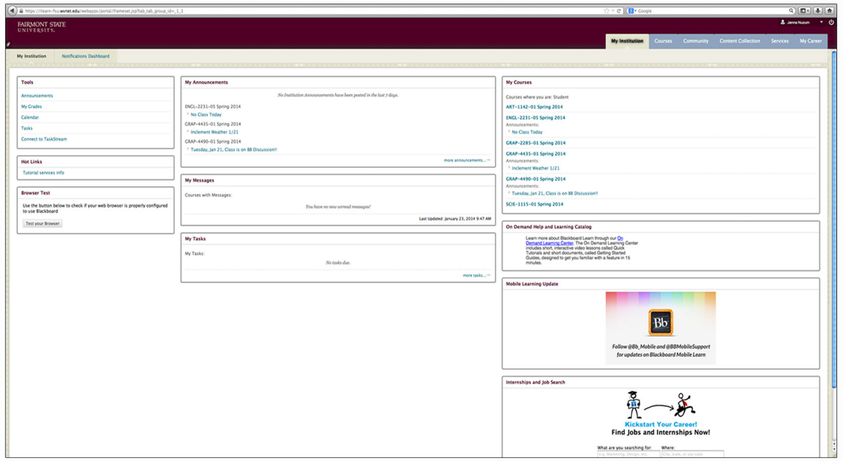
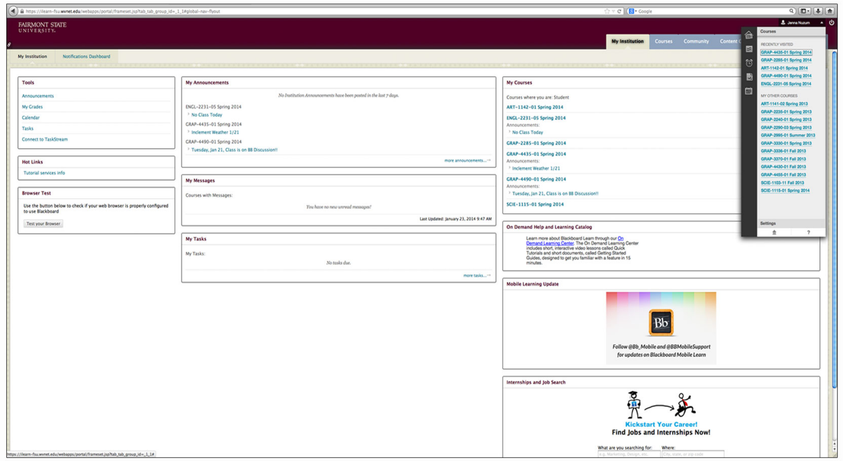
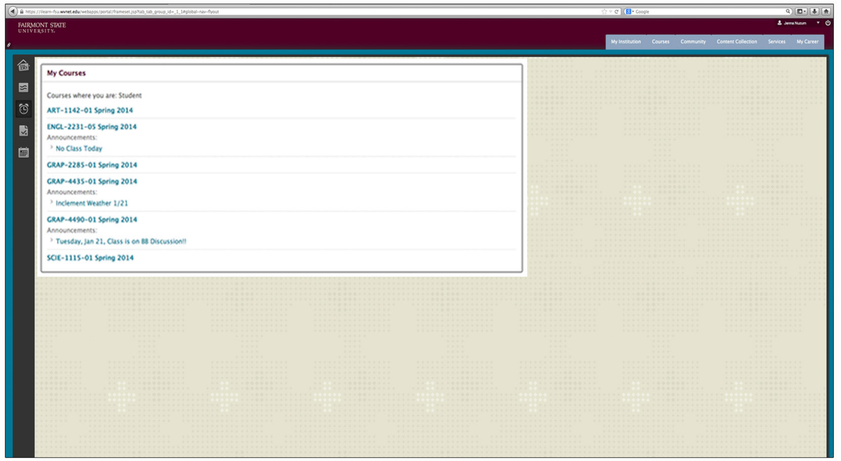
The way this device is supposed to work is that you go onto this website and then you click on your notification bar at the top right of your screen, a drop menu comes up and you click on where the notification is and it will come up. But in this illustration, you can see in the last frame, the notification does not work and this causes me anxiety because I cannot get my school notifications and do not know what was important that I needed to know.







This is the optimal way the device should function. The notification drop menu comes up and when you click on it, it goes to your notifications and you can see what classes have information that you need to see/know. It also shows your grades to see which grades you have gotten recently and to see where you stand in that class. This is the way the device is supposed to function. This is the optimal way it should function.
